A Bit.....Smitten

The weather has turned cold here and I am spending more time in front of the computer. (Not as much time as I spend in front of the fireplace, though!!)

This month I have to say that I am only a little surprised. I mean, I had a feeling that it was only a matter of time before I would hear from another Jack Rusell (or two) who have decided to take up typing. I realize that we are a special breed and with our busy nature, it is only natural that I would not be the only JR to look for something productive to do when couped up in the house.

This past month I received two emails from fellow Jack Russell Terriers who have mastered the art of typing with paws. The first was a friend from my puppy days. We played together in Kentucky one year at the Midwest Match Race. Her name is Lily Long and she wrote me to let me know that her owner had found a grammatical error in last month's column. (I used "there" instead of "their.") I told her I appreciated her letting me know and pointed out that I need to stop relying so much on spell check.....lol!

The second email came from a handsome looking fella who lives in Ohio. His name is "Oz" and he is from a Cowboy Mounted Shooting

My new friend, "Oz"

Hey Bella,
You know, you are quite a BABE! I have been checking out your profile in the Horse Resource every month. I read you are part of a Barrel Racing family (what ever THAT is?). I'm in a Cowboy Mounted Shooting family, we ride horses and shoot guns just like the REAL Cowboys of the Old West.

I'm sending you a picture of me...pretty handsome, right! Actually this is my "Tuff Enough to Wear "PINK" outfit, I won the "Tuffest Pink Puppy" award at the Breast Cancer Charity Shoot hosted by 1st Ohio CMSA this past weekend.

Hey Girly... I'll have "my people" call "your people" and you & I can get together for dinner sometime!

See ya around kid...

family. He even sent me a picture. (Check him out, isn't he cute?) I am not sure if he has learned to attach files to emails yet, or if he had a little help from his owner. I'll have to find out.

I have to say that I am a bit smitten with this charming cowboy. I don't want to embarrass him, but I've copied and pasted his letter beside his picture for you to read. Yes, I can copy and paste. I've got to stay a step ahead of the other JR's that have taken up typing.

Until next month....

I'll be trying to figure out how to use that mouse..... Stay warm.....
